PREGNANCY SUPPORT

Ty moved to Bryan-College Station from Austin, nearing her second trimester. After securing housing and enrolling her oldest son in school, an internet search led her to APO. She scheduled an appointment with a pregnancy counselor, in need of guidance and a few baby items. Ty's pregnancy was high-risk, causing her anxiety. She shared concerns over helping her other children transition from the move successfully, but didn't know where to begin.

In following appointments, together we explored referrals and created a priority list. Ty became very active in our counseling sessions, completing our chosen online curriculum videos and homework.

She stated that although she had been pregnant before, the support and check-ins helped her remain motivated. She found the educational videos to be quick, yet valuable, and requested more of them. Ty soon earned plenty of Mama Bucks for our store and used them to purchase outfits and toys for each of her children. Ty also participated in one of our monthly pregnancy classes, where she quickly connected and made a new friend. She shared that she was grateful for both the material items and direction she received from APO. Ty continues to find a sense of community for her growing family while focusing on her personal goals. Thank you for helping us support Ty, her children, and many others in similar situations.
